

More Love

© Radha Sahar, Feb 2012 ~ for dear friends in relationship break-ups

Two hearts beating as one - that's how it seemed to be Suddenly you're breaking up. It's hard, and hard to believe
You thought alike, or so you thought, then a rift began to show
Now you're drifting poles apart from a soul you hardly know

When do you sing your own song? How can you cross the sea?
When do you give up hope that things could change if only ...
Letting go is hard, I know. You lie awake in the dark
Still the tears fall, you gave your all. You got so much love in your heart

You got more love, much more love to give
You got more life, much more life to live
Through the grieving, and the lows
Keep believing in yourself. I can't help feeling
You got more love tomorrow to receive - More love

In times gone by we found a mate and gave ourselves away
Our hearts could break only once
And if they did, they had to stay that way
These days life is kinder - we can find ourselves again
You would say to me, I know, so I say, beautiful friend

You got more love, much more love to give
You got more life, much more life to live
Through the grieving, and the lows
Keep believing in yourself - I can't help feeling
You got more love tomorrow to receive
Hang on in there, there's more love to receive
More love ... in it's own time , more love

